Von Matthew Ray : Getting Started with PhoneGap 4 (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Getting Started with PhoneGap 4 (English Edition):

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Matthew Ray (just Matt, thank you) was born in Anderson, Indiana in 1979, the wisest, most attractive, and only son of Phil and Cathy Ray. He eventually was forced to share the house with a younger sister, Gina, eight years later. He later got revenge on this intrusion by methodically shaping his sister into a nerd, while simultaneously inflicting a multitude of games, Monty Python films, and episodes of the Tom Green Show upon her. Another eight years passed and he started a small (otherwise known as solo) web development company in high school. Matt was destined to attend an Ivy League college, so upon graduating high school, he immediately applied to and was accepted into Ivy Tech State College. He has since practiced the dark arts of web, client-server, and mobile development for several companies in Indiana. He currently resides in Pendleton, Indiana with his soon-to-be wife (fingers crossed) Ashley and cuddles with his 9-year old daughter as often as possible.
