Von Gordon Lewis, Hans Mol : Grammar for Young Learners - Primary Resource Books for Teachers before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Grammar for Young Learners - Primary Resource Books for Teachers:

Kundenrezensionen Hilfreichste Kundenrezensionen 1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Good Von Anonymous I like this book, because it is well organized. Many activities provide creative, fun, and interesting approaches to practice grammar. However, you will need to prepare some materials on your own. Then again, this is usually what a teacher does; especially when working with YLs. The book will give you ideas and provide some copy-ready materials, but it will not replace preparation time or planning. Enjoy! 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Brilliant Von Mona Schobesberger Lot of activities and practical ideas for different levels. A very useful book for extra-curricular activities. Make your reaching colourful and creative by using this book

He began his writing career answering letters from owners of Olympus cameras, Vivitar flash units, and Kiron lenses. From there he graduated to being a contributing editor to magazines such as "Camera 35, Petersen's Photographic, " and "Camera Darkroom." Through unforeseen but fortuitous circumstances, he leveraged his irreverent wit into a TV sitcom-writing career, with hit shows such as "Amen, Family Matters, " and "In Living Color" to his credit. Now reformed, he earns his living as an e-learning instructional designer for Fortune 500 companies. Gordon lives just outside of Philadelphia-which, not coincidentally, is an excellent location for street photography. Hans J. Mol holds the Ph.D. degree in sociology from Columbia University, New York. He has held academic positions in New Zealand and Australia and is now professor in the Religious Studies Department of McMaster University. His best known books are "Religion in Australia", "Western Religion", and "Identity and the Sacred".
